

ACH Aluminum Chlorohydrate

PAC Polyaluminum Chloride

One of the two should be used when turbidity is 12 or less. However, they can also work well in high turbidities. PAC usually produces a smaller more dense floc which is necessary in some cases. Both work every well to remove color.